

AFRICA INTERNATIONAL MISSIONS

Postcards from Africa

Roger & Martha Dickson

Fun in the African village is doing one's daily duties with all your friends in the village.

Viewing the historical Table Mountain in Cape Town from the harbour at the Waterfront.

Imported from America, this combine has just harvested wheat in the Cape Peninsula which is the bread basket of South Africa.

Traveling throughout Namibia reveals the isolated circumstances in which a lot of farmers live. Here at the foot of the mountain.

There is nothing boring about traveling Africa. There can always be something exciting just down the road.

The African Communal Weaver Bird knows how to build an electrifying home away from the dangers of predators.
